Legion Repairs Hall Official Opening To Take Place Soon

A meeting of the Canadian Legion Branch was held at the Bistro on the 2nd of November, at which a very good representation of the members were present.

The matter of re-establishment and re-habilitation credit due war widows was discussed and it was pointed out that at the present time there are very few provisions covering this class of citizen. Regarding re-establishment credits if the service man was killed or died while in the service his re-establishment credit would be lost; however, he also after discharge through any cause or not and before his re-establishment credits have been used this credit may now be made available to his widow under the same conditions and for the same purpose as if the veteran himself were applying.

The only other legislative provisions covering the widow of servicemen who have died or been killed are:

Veteran's preference in civil service, re-establishment payment is given to the war widow.

Under the provincial legislation secondary education facilities are provided free for the children of service men and women who are abled as a result of war services and who were resident in the province at the time of their enlistment.

It was explained that the matter has been taken up by a representative body of the Canadian Legion at Ottawa.

A report was made by the hall committee and it was stated that the plasterers was working on the hall and it was expected that it would be finished by the end of the month. It would be necessary to do something more on the roof and this would be attended to on Monday afternoon when volunteers from the members would assist. It was also suggested that two small rooms on the back of the hall be cleaned and the roof fixed.

The finances were running low. While contributions had been solicited through the paper sometime ago only one had been received and it was thought that the members of the Legion would help out by way of a small contribution. The following contributions were gratefully received:

L. Michael	$100.00
E. K. Hunter	5.00
H. S. Kelly	5.00
W. V. Pythian	5.00

Remembrance Day services was then discussed and it was suggested that every returned man and woman of War I and War 2, whether Legion members or not should be at the Remembrance Day parades and services in their respective towns who served and did not come back.

The matter of Legion joining the Legion was then brought up and it was pointed out that a resolution had been passed sometime ago that no one who had served in the armed forces and had been given an honorable discharge was eligible to join the Legion. We welcome all returned men.

The question was asked as to the use of the hall by organizations in town and at the Rock Town, Girl Guides and Girl Cedars, etc. It was the feeling of the meeting that these organizations should be encouraged and that any properly organized, properly supervised organizations in town could make arrangements with the secretary.

It was reported that Clifford Kiley was in hospital and it was expected that he would be there for sometime.

REMEMBRANCE DAY 1946

We bow our heads in reverent, silent pride
For comrades who for their country died;
We mourn their loss as brothers to us dear
And write their names in sacred mem'ry here.

With light of youth gleaming in their eyes
They looked to war and paid the victor's price;
They loved their life, yet loving freedom more,
They heard its call, defended Britain's shore.

In many lands white crosses row on row
Where heroes' graves have scarred the earth and show
The price of freedom paid and country's love.
All hallowed ground and valor's final proof.

What is this thing, O Man, that plagues thine heart?
Thou canst not seem to learn that finer art
Of peace and life, but choosest strife instead.
Till without shame canst count thy millions dead!

Open thine eyes and look, behold and see
That war can never make the nations free!
That man with man, unarmed, and with land
As brothers all in faith and love must stand.

Be loyal then to visions which they saw:
A world that's free from strife and ruled by law,
The law of love and not the rule of might
Can make a peaceful world and life more bright.

THE MANSE, — Rev. Walter E. Sieber.
Gleichen, Alta.

The Legion would send him some smoke and reading material, it was decided to hold a smoker for the benefit of the Legion hall, as it is finished, date to be announced later. A social evening would be held afterwards.

Reduced postage on air mail from Canada to countries in quarter of the globe became effective November 1st. The new rates will at least cut in half the present cost of air mail letters to Europe, Africa, Australia, New Zealand and many countries in Asia.

What is in the lunch box? It's 12 o'clock School is dismissed for the dinner hour and hungry boys and girls rush for the lunch box. What's in the lunch box? Let's take Miss J. Lewis' word for it. She's the home economics division. Is there milk to supply the minerals necessary for strong straight limbs and sound teeth? Is their protein food such as meat, eggs, cheese, peanut butter, etc. Is there a fruit or a vegetable to supply vitamins necessary for growth and health? Is there a whole grain or Canada approved variety bread? Is there a good supply of vitamins and minerals which play such a great part in laying the foundation for a healthy, happy, and useful life.

WEDDING

CREIGHTON-WARD

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Sunday afternoon in the lobby of the Cluny Hotel when, in a double ring ceremony, William Creighton and Elizabeth Ward, both of Brooks, were united in marriage in the presence of a large number of intimate friends of the bride and groom. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. E. Sieber. Miss Barbara Haymond acted as bridesmaid and Mr. F. W. Morwickie as best man.

The bride wore a straight-length gown of blue velvet with a string of pearls and a lace hem. She wore a gown of pink crepe and white carnations.

After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding breakfast, provided by the hostess, Mrs. L. F. Haymond.

The happy couple left on the evening train for a short honeymoon in the mountains which will take up their residence in Brooks, Alta. Their many friends in the community join in wishing them many years of happiness in their married life.

Town & District

Babe McArthur has moved into town, from his farm, to spend the winter.

Bob Dobson has come down from Calgary for several days last week looking up his old friends.

The town council is having some of the streets gravelled. This will be great help to motorists when the roads are wet.

Mrs Dorothy Brown, R.N., returned to Gleichen on Saturday last week from a vacation which she had spent in a British military hospital for the past year. While enroute home she spent a month in Ontario visiting relatives. Miss Brown has since gone to her home near Arrowood.

Gleichen's pass off very quietly in Hallowe'en with very little if any trick or treat going on. About the only thing that is done is the windows and obstacles placed on the streets. The little folks were not, the only ones who celebrated. Some of the older boys made a real night of it and next day had plenty of good stories to relate of their house to house visits.

Two dances take place next Monday evening, Remembrance Day. There will be one at Queenstown and one in Gleichen, both sponsored by the Legion members.

Harry Kaye, age 88 years, died at Eventide Hospital on October 21, was born in England and came to Alberta about 40 years ago. By occupation he was a street car operator and retired from that occupation in 1938. He came to Gleichen from Red Deer about two years ago. The funeral took place Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Major A. F. Parkinson officiating. Interment was made in Eventide cemetery.

Autumn Travel Is Growing In Popularity

The Canadian landscape is world renowned for its autumn coloring. From the earliest times missionaries, explorers, travellers, traders and settlers have extolled the charm of autumn in the Canadian woods. It is in many ways the most delightful season of the year in Canada. Yet a vast majority of vacationists prefer their sightseeing during the summer months, crowding tourist centres to capacity until the end of August.

There are, of course, reasons for this practice. Parents, young children and school age are usually return to their homes by the beginning of September.

There seems to be a growing tendency, however, especially on the part of those who prefer to travel at any time of the year for their annual vacation, to defer it until the autumn. An example is to be found in the number of visitors to the national parks during September. In 1945, Gleichen Minister of Mines and Resources visitors to the national parks during September of this year numbered 104,000, an increase of 30,000 over September, 1944. This brings the total number of visitors to the national parks for the end of September, more than 250,000, and it looks as though the final figure will equal, if not exceed, the peak year before the war when more than a million visitors entered the national parks in autumn.

There is much to be said in favor of autumn travel in the national parks. Apart from the glorious autumn coloring, the park roads and trails are less busy, accommodation is more plentiful and the temperatures have largely disappeared. The days are still bright and sunny, and the nights crisp and cool. Wildlife is more evident and it is one of the best times for the camera enthusiast. Hikers and cyclists find an ideal time to do their pack sightseeing, and visitors interested in color photography are able to record never-to-be-forgotten autumn scenes.

With more than 3000 miles of park roads and trails to explore and an area of 12,000,000 square miles of outdoor scenery, the national parks of Canada are able to provide opportunities for autumn vacationists.

habit of thrift developed in past years has been well maintained. In purchasing the Canada Savings Bond in volume without the stimulus of the urgent presentations of previous campaigns, the Canadian people have shown a remarkable lack of judgment. The savings they have invested will bring many benefits to them and to the communities in which they live.

(The bonds were offered as a convenient facility for the investment of savings. When the terms were announced, no date was set for the termination of the offering. A restriction of sales to a limited period could not be fully consistent with the principles of the offering. Nevertheless, some initial period of sales activity seemed desirable in order to introduce the new security to the public, and to prove the degree of acceptance before committing to a more extensive program.

The Minister of Finance has decided that the new security will be withdrawn at any time that demand does not appear to justify it.

The bonds are offered in a number of ways to affect Canadian production of foodstuffs and to influence the volume, value and direction of her food export trade. There was an approximate 40 percent overall increase in food production achieved despite a very considerable reduction in available man power. To make the most effective use of shipping space, export demand was for foods of high nutritive value—wheat and protein foods such as meat, fish, dairy products and eggs. Accordingly, those commodities were emphasized in production, plant and trade. These supplies were reflected not only in larger exports but also, except in the case of fish in greater domestic disappearance. Advances in food technology, such as improved methods of drying, freezing and canning, have increased qualities, enabled Canada to help overcome shipping problems and to meet the needs of her wartime over markets.
